Giddy-up

Thursday, 1st November 2007

I have recently started reading a punters' forum in the lead-up to my one big weekend of betting. So far I have learned about quaddie formulas, some new betting software, and I have some good tips for the Valley if you are interested. No talk of racewear, but if I were to take a punt, I'd bet even money there will be far too many ladies waking up on Tuesday the same colour as this dress. So is the tragedy of tan in a can.

PS I will be studying the form until Wednesday next week. Happy punting.
