

OYSTER MAGAZINE
Issue No. 74, 2008

THE CUT

LOLA, LOLA

First Years Lola and Evie made it through their Spring/Summer collection with HD's in innovation, style and wearability. Now it looks like they'll pull their grade average up even higher with an Autumn/Winter collection inspired by college intellectuals. Reminiscent of a youthful Sylvia Plath, the clothing has a vintage look with an undercurrent of darkness bubbling just below the surface. This fifties style is tempered by a touch of clean-lined art deco sensibility. Check it out, we promise you'll look smart. www.lolaevie.com

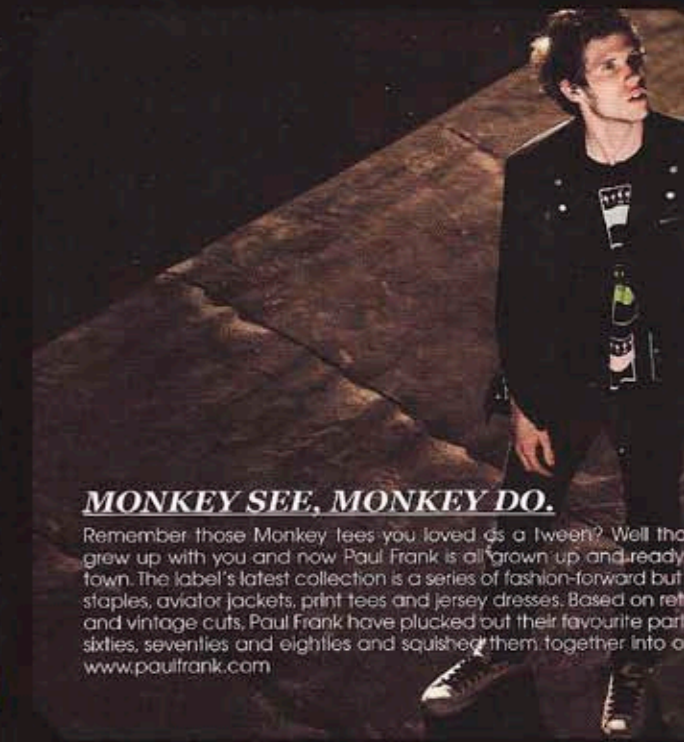

SPACE THE MUSIC

Cult Melbourne label P.A.M. have been to space before, but finally in their newest collection, they've found life in other worlds. This season's offering, Space Face is a flawless blend of quirky kitsch and comfortable cool. Their extra-curricular creative activities are evident in their fashion work. They bring to their collections a certain ingenuity that is sourced outside the sartorial realms. In Space Face this comes out in offbeat prints and unconventional shapes. So go and get the space you need. www.perksandmini.com

DIGGING AROUND

MONKEY SEE, MONKEY DO.

Remember those Monkey tees you loved as a tween? Well the ones that grew up with you and now Paul Frank is all grown up and ready for town. The label's latest collection is a series of fashion-forward but familiar staples, aviator jackets, print tees and jersey dresses. Based on retro and vintage cuts, Paul Frank have plucked out their favourite parts from the sixties, seventies and eighties and squished them together into one. www.paulfrank.com

BANISHED RAYS

Ray-Ban are continuing to revisit classic shapes with their newest collection of sunglasses. Fans of Top Gun and those who are sick of over-the-top wayfarer style sunnies will instantly jump on revamped aviators, which around styles offer something for those wanting an effortless classic. sixteen styles to choose from in flexible metal and tough acetate. something for every face, and, with their high-UV protection, Ray-Ban keep you seeing, as well as looking cool. www.ray-ban.com

